ATHLETICS

AGAIN WIN

Defeated the Champions of Boston, 5 to 3.

WITH CY YOUNG PITCHING

Waddell Started to Twirl for Visitors But Retired in Favor of a Youngster, Dygert, Who Did Well.

Boston, Sept. 9.—The Champions again buckled before the Athletics yesterday, the score being 5 to 3, after another fine contest which was appreciated by a large crowd of spectators. Young was in the box for the home team and was touched up for nine hits. "Rube" Waddell started for Philadelphia, but gave way in the third to a new pitcher named Dygert from New Orleans. The new one did fine work, and Boston scored only one run off him.

Waddell's undoing came in the second. Collins started off with a two bagger, and Selbach swiped a long one for a home run, sending the Captain in ahead of him. There was only one other hit in the inning, but Dygert was called upon. He opened by getting in front of Burket's hot grounder which he flied to first. Parent beat out a hit to third, but nothing resulted.

The locals bunched three hits in the sixth, and scored one run. Stahl, Collins and Selbach were the batters. That was the end of the scoring for the home team, although Freeman who batted for Criger in the ninth got a single.

Philadelphia scored one in the fourth on L. Cross' single, a pass to Seybold and a hit by Murphy. In the seventh Murphy made his third hit of the game. M. Cross fouled to Grimshaw, but Schreck singled. Dygert went out to Grimshaw. Hartzel doubled, scoring Murphy and Schreck, tying the score. Hartzel scored soon on a passed ball, putting the visitors one to the good, an advantage which they held during the remainder of the game. They got a final tally in the eighth on Davis' double, a sacrifice by L. Cross and an out at first.

DIVIDE THE CASH.

No Winner-Take-All Terms in the Britt-Nelson Fight.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 9.—Fully determined to referee the Britt-Nelson contest today, James J. Jeffries has arrived from Los Angeles.

"I have accepted the offer of $1,000 to referee the contest between Britt and Nelson, and I will be the third man in the ring when the men meet, and that is all there is to it," said he. "I understand that Nolan fears Nelson will not get a square deal. But the public has demanded that I officiate, knowing I will give both sides a square deal. If I suspect the least bit of crookedness is going on, I will call the fight off at an instant."

It is now the belief of the sporting fraternity that Manager Nolan will be compelled to lay aside his objections and agree to Jeffries as referee. It is further expected that the deadlock which has existed will be fully broken at the meeting of the fight managers and the referee.

Already $45,000 has been taken in for seats at the fight. The betting continues at 10 to 7 on Britt.

The Chronicle says: From information which was authoritatively given out late Thursday night, it appears that ever since three days after the articles for the Britt-Nelson fight were signed, instead of the contest being a winner-take-all proposition, there has been an agreement between the principals that the fighters' share of the receipts be divided on a basis of 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser. Moreover, there is no side bet of $10,000.

In answer to the statements that have been made that Nolan and Nelson were objecting to the referee as an excuse for "running out" of the match, because there was no loser's end, it is stated that three days after the articles were signed Nolan was approached in behalf of the Britts, who claimed that the winner-take-all proposition was not satisfactory to Britt and that the fighters' share would have to be divided on a 60 and 40 per cent basis, or there would be no fight. The demand was further made that the side bet of $10,000 be declared off.

Nolan argued the matter, according to the statement, and finally said his only desire was to get Britt into the ring and that he would, in order to secure the match, agree to anything that was fair in the matter. As a result a second agreement was signed, bearing the date of the fight, that the fighters' share of 65 per cent of the gross receipts be divided 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser.

The $2,500 deposited by Nolan as a forfeit on the side bet was returned to Nolan, and the same amount deposited by Britt was returned to the maker.

SOLD BONDS TO N. Y. LIFE

Director Admits Being In a Syndicate.

HOLDS MANY DEBENTURES

Witness Declares Some of the New York's Investments Are Practically Not Secured—Atlantic Coast Line Deal.

New York, Sept. 9.—John Claffin, the well known dry goods merchant, and a director and member of the finance committee of the New York Life Insurance Company, occupied the witness stand during most of the morning session of the Armstrong investigating committee in the aldermanic chamber at the City Hall yesterday. Mr. Claffin testified freely concerning the financial transactions of the company.

He admitted that the New York Life frequently participated in syndicates, and created something of a sensation toward the close of his testimony when he said that he had not only participated in certain of these underwriting syndicates individually, but in at least one instance had been a member of a syndicate which sold bonds to the insurance company. The laws expressly stipulate that no director of an insurance company shall sell any securities to that company at a profit to himself, and provide that a director who engages in such a transaction may be removed from office.

The bonds which the syndicate, of which Mr. Claffin was a member, sold to the New York Life were those of the International Mercantile Marine company. Mr. Claffin was interested to the extent of $100,000. He admitted that the bonds had no market value just now, but was certain they would be worth all the company had paid for them in time.

The witness also testified that the New York Life had among its securities certain railroad debentures which were, practically speaking, unsecured. He said that in some cases the company agreed to take securities and hold them for some months, and he told of an instance where it had paid $1,384,000.67 to J. P. Morgan & Co. for its participation in a syndicate, and had later paid $942,000 to a second syndicate, managed by Harvey Fisk & Sons, to support the market. George W. Perkins, vice president of the New York Life, and chairman of its finance committee, is a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co.'s banking house.

At the close of the early session, Charles E. Hughes, chief counsel to the committee, intimated that Thomas W. Lawson might be a witness at the inquiry. He said that no subpoena had as yet been served on Mr. Lawson, but that if the Boston operator had any statements he wished to make the committee would be glad to listen to them, even if Mr. Lawson had not been summoned to appear.

McCall's Salary $100,000.

The first witness at the hearing was Edmund D. Randolph, treasurer of the company, who verified a list of officers and salaries from 1877 to date. From this list it appeared that from 1877 to 1880 the salary of Morris Franklin, then president, had been $31,250 a year; that of W. H. Pierce, then vice-president, had also been $31,250, from 1881 to 1885 the salary of Mr. Franklin had been reduced to $15,000 a year, his advanced years being given as a reason for this reduction. From 1886 to 1889, Mr. Pierce, then president, had been paid $50,000 a year. This had been raised to $75,000 in 1890. In 1892 John A. McCall had become president, receiving $40,000 for his first six months services and $50,000 for the second six months. In 1893, '94, and '95 his salary had been $50,000; from 1896 to 1899 inclusive, $75,000, and from 1900 to the present time, $100,000.

The reduction of the salary of George W. Perkins, the first vice president, from $75,000 a year to $35,000 in 1902 was made, Mr. Randolph explained, at Mr. Perkins' own suggestion, he having accepted a very remunerative offer of partnership in the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., and being on that account only able to give part of his attention to the affairs of the insurance company.

Illinois Centenarian Native of Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dike and Mrs. Mary Lamb of Bristol have returned home from Richmond, Ill., where they went to attend the 100th birthday anniversary of their aunt, Mrs. Sally Colting. Mrs. Colting was born in Milton August 22, 1805, and went West in 1837. For sixty years she has lived in the same home, and notwithstanding her great age, her mind is bright and she assisted in the preparation for the birthday celebration. The day, August 22, was fittingly observed in Richmond, all the stores closing in honor of the event. One of the features of the day was a reception at which 250 persons paid their respects and shook hands with Mrs. Colting, who received many tokens of friendship, and also enjoyed a ride in an automobile.

"Ikey and Abey" Tonight.

Edward R. Salter's new musical comedy entitled "Ikey and Abey," presents a plot which materializes many comic possibilities in hilarious style, and is said to keep the audience in continual laughter and applause from start to finish. The piece is presented in three acts and many amusing climaxes and absurd situations follow each other in such quick succession that the interest is not allowed to flag for a single moment. New and taking specialties are introduced, and the musical programme has been arranged to suit the popular fancy. "Ikey and Abey" will be presented at the opera house this evening.

SCARES AMERICAN CHURCHES.

Protestant Bodies Neglecting Spiritual for Social Lines, Says Rev. Dr. Morgan.

New York, Sept. 9.—A criticism of the American Protestant churches was voiced by Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, who has been working in the late Rev. Dwight L. Moody's place at East Northfield, Mass. When on the point of sailing for Europe on the steamer Baltic, Rev. Dr. Campbell Morgan said:

"The American church does not seem to be much more than a social organization now. Its members spend more time developing along social lines than they do along spiritual lines. The business men, the influential Christians, and those who are in a position to do their duty, wrapped in their own affairs or busy in the pursuits of pleasure or frivolity, they lose track of the way and forget the pledges they made to their church."

"The old fire and old time spirit are lacking, and without this what can be expected by social clubs, but a leading away from God and the path. How can a business man expect to have an influence with his employees when they know his life, its methods, and just how far he practices what he preaches. What the churches want is more of God and less of dress and social position; more of the spirit of the Master and less of strife for place and money, and more religion by example and life than by preaching and talking."
